By What Standard

The Bible makes it clear that God is not only concerned about justice, He alone of the God of all justice. However, the meaning of the Biblical word "justice" has been hijacked and a new term has arisen - "social justice.' This term has become the mantra of a new religion, a new moral code and a new litmus test for inclusion and social acceptability. So how do Christians evaluate this? The most important question is this, "by what standard do we judge?" Do we judge by our own sense of justice, or do we follow the sense of justice from the philosophers, the politicians, the newscasters, the poets and the entertainers?
