1. In spite of outward circumstances, the people of God need to hold onto God's promises of glory for His Church with a _____ that will not be quenched.

- a. Isaiah exemplifies a heart that is _____ for the people of God and must, "for Zion's sake", press forward until the Lord revives His Church.

"How loud is this call to the Church of God, to be fervent and incessant in their cries to Him for this great mercy! How wonderful the words used, concerning the manner in which such worms of the dust should address the high and lofty One that inhabits eternity! And what encouragement is here, to approach the mercy-seat with the greatest freedom, humble boldness, earnestness, constancy, and full assurance of faith, to seek of God this great favor that can be sought in Christian prayer!" - Jonathan Edwards

- b. Believers must remember that God has promised that _____ and their kings will one day recognize the glory of the Lord in the salvation of His Church and be drawn to it.

- c. Believers must consider that though it seems at times that the people of God have been forsaken, the Lord has great _____ in His Church.

- d. Believers must prepare to _____ people from all the nations of the earth into the Church.

2. The glory of the Church is the _____ and the salvation He provides.

- a. Jesus Christ is not only the _____, He is salvation itself.

- b. By God's grace, He seeks out sinful people and redeems them that they might not be called forsaken, but will instead be the _____ of God.
